Sea and Sand—Pastel.

The sea is gray where it films the sand
 And green where it meets the sky;
 It is white as snow where the sailboats go
 And blue where the sun is high.

The sand is silver above the tide
 And sparkles in the sun;
 It is like dull brass as the waters pass
 And gold where the tide has run.

MAURICE MORRIS.

Country Life.

"How do you like living in the country?"

"Great. Finest place you ever saw. Best train service in the world. Why, my wife and I come into town nearly every night and take in a roof garden or something."

The Fate of the Oneida.

One of the most extraordinary catastrophes that have befallen vessels of the United States destroyed the sloop of war Oneida in 1899. She was bound homeward with a jolly ship's company eager to see wives and sweethearts and native land once more, when not far out of port she was struck by the British steamer Bombay coming in. The stern of the Bombay cut off the stern of the Oneida. The ship was sinking rapidly, and guns of distress were immediately fired, but the Bombay steamed on her way and left the vessel to her doom. She went down, and all but one or two of her crew were drowned. The captain of the Bombay gave no other reason for his conduct than that he had Lady Eyre, the wife of a distinguished British satrap, on board and did not wish to disturb her nerves with scenes of shipwreck. He was mobbed when he reached Yokohama, dismissed from the service, socially tabooed from that time on and died in disgrace a year or two later.
